To Whom It Might Concern:

This notarized Letter should comply with complaint filing laws as I would like to file a complaint against Hillary Clinton and the Democratic Party for violation of The Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971. As it is my understanding that working to get your primary opponent elected in the last days of an election and before delegate votes are counted is a violation of these laws if you continue to accept donations for your own campaign.

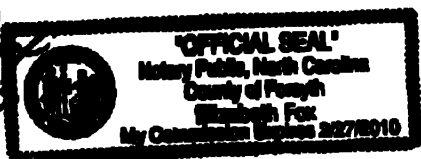

Enclosed is a copy of relevant documents.

Sincerely,

Lisa Harrison

To Whom It Might Concern:

Last week I received a letter from the Hillary Clinton campaign that stated she had spent the last month doing everything she could to assist her opponent in securing the democratic nomination. Less than one month ago I also received a letter that solicited for donations to the Hillary campaign. As of the twenty sixth of 2008 her web site and some political action committee web sites solicit campaign donations using the premise that she is still running for President.

The solicitation of campaign donations to an individual who is assisting their opponent in securing the nomination is in my opinion a violation of campaign finance laws. This and her opponents affiliation with the non-profit organization Hope leads me to believe that serious infractions have occurred and if the Hillary campaign failed to compete with her opposition this constitutes a deception of voters by the democratic party. Since the democratic nomination primary was open to all voters this failure to compete might be in violation of other election laws.

Enclosed with this letter are six documents. Document 1 is a copy of the letter from the Hillary Camp that states she had been doing everything to elect her opposition. The second document is a three page copy of a Political Action Committee's web site that attempt to solicit donations under the premise that the Hillary campaign was still active dated 8/26/08. The third document is a copy of a two page attempt to solicit funds via the Hillary.com's web site dated 8/26/08.

I spoke to an individual at the DCBE that suggested I send this letter and a copy of these documents to your office for review. Thank you for your time and I wish you luck in your duties to justly secure free and fair voting for the American people.

Sincerely,

Lisa A. Harrison

Dear Ms. Harrison:

This office is in receipt of your complaint dated August 28, 2008 alleging deceptive fundraising practices by the Hillary Clinton campaign. Your complaint was forwarded by the Davidson County Board of Elections.

The Campaign Reporting Act of the North Carolina General Statutes regulates campaign finance activity by political committees registered with the state, county and municipal boards of elections in North Carolina. The state and local boards do not have jurisdiction over the campaign fundraising activities described in your complaint as they pertain to candidates for federal offices.

N.C.G.S. §163-278.5 defines the scope of our jurisdiction, and reads, in part:

"The provisions of this Article apply to primaries and elections for North Carolina offices and to North Carolina referenda and do not apply to primaries and elections for federal offices or offices in other States or to non-North Carolina referenda. Any provision in this Article that regulates a non-North Carolina entity does so only to the extent that the entity's actions affect elections for North Carolina offices or North Carolina referenda...."

The Federal Election Commission regulates the activities described in your letter as they pertain to candidates for federal offices. Contact information for this agency is below:

HILLARY RODHAM CLINTON

Dear Friend,

Over the past month, I have been doing everything I can to help elect Senator Barack Obama as our next president, as well as helping candidates across the country to increase our Democratic control of the House and Senate.

One thing that we can count on this fall is that the Republican Party will try to distract attention from their failed domestic and foreign policy, by pouring money into ads that will distort Barack's record, and we cannot let them get away with it.

While I am doing everything I can, it is urgent that I turn to you to ask that you help me retire my campaign debt so I can work full time on ensuring victory in November.

As you know, I loaned our campaign money at critical moments so we could continue our fight. I am not asking for anyone's help to pay that back. That was my investment and my commitment because I believe so deeply in our cause.

I will never regret the energy, effort and passion we put into one of the closest — and most expensive — primary contests in history. We put everything we had into winning, and we came about as close as you can. The debt we are dealing with now is just a reflection of how hard we worked, how determined we were to have our voices heard.

I will not rest until we get everyone paid for helping us on this campaign.

We touched so many lives over the course of this campaign. Throughout each step, you were there by my side, and I simply cannot thank you enough for the support you have given me. And I hope that our campaign will have an everlasting and powerful impact on you that continues long after the voting stops.

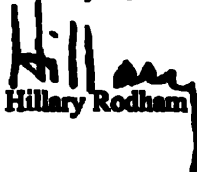

But there is something else — something hopefully, less enduring — that our campaign has left behind. I am referring, of course, to our substantial campaign debt.

I know all you have done for me — all the ways you have given your time, energy and financial resources. I am writing to you today to ask you to help once again.

Your contribution today will allow me to focus on the important issues facing our country, electing Barack Obama president and putting my energy towards building stronger majorities in November.

It will take time to retire our campaign debt. But, with your immediate help, we can meet the most pressing demands. I cannot express in words the deep appreciation for all you have done and my personal gratitude for anything you can do to help right now.

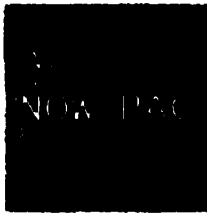

Thank you,

Hillary Rodham Clinton
